

The BSTP are able to offer at least one free place bursary on each of our Continuing Education Symposiums (CES).

Applications are invited from interested members and non-members of the BSTP.

The awarding of free place bursaries will be at the discretion of the BSTP Council.

Priority will be given to individuals working within an “early career” environment, for example, stipendiary students/researchers studying/working within a relevant scientific field, veterinary pathology residents and professional trainee pathologists working towards a professional qualification or gaining more experience within the field of toxicological pathology.

In addition, if the successful candidate is not already a member of the BSTP, they will also receive up to 12 months membership of the BSTP.

The deadline for applications for CES 5: Female Reproductive System is Friday 28th January 2022.

When applying you should submit the following:

- A brief CV.
- A covering letter stating why this particular CES is of interest to you.
- A letter from your supervisor/Head of Department confirming that you are working within an “early career” environment.

The successful candidate will be expected to:

- Complete and return a Registration Form – Free Place Bursary (sent to the successful candidate after the award has been made).
- Attend the whole symposium.
- Write a short article (approx 500 words) describing either your own research, a brief overview of the symposium, or a description of how the symposium has contributed to your training/professional knowledge (this will appear in the BSTP Newsletter).
- If not already a member of the BSTP, complete and return the membership application form (sent to the successful candidate after the award has been made).

Completed applications should be sent directly to the BSTP Secretariat to allow for a decision to be made by the BSTP Council and the successful candidate will be informed in good time so that they can submit their registration form.

The BSTP are happy for you to disseminate this information to your colleagues within your group.

Email: BSTP Secretariat – bstpsecretariat@gmail.com